Spring Bed for Sale in Frankfort.
GOLD'S PATENT. This is an entirely new application of spiral springs, made of steel, and is easily the most comfortable, neat, and cheap spring bed ever offered for sale, adjusted to every description of bedstead, and is so constructed that it can be taken apart and put together again, and is so easy to get into the advantages of this bed, having entire confidence in its durability and adaptation to the use of the people. We offer to attach-it to any bedstead, submit it to trial, to the satisfaction of any person, at the extraordinary low price of $1.50, and if after trial it proves unsatisfactory, it will be returned, and the money refunded. We take it away, refund the money, and replace old bottom as we found it.

Democratic State Convention.

FRANKFORT, KY., Oct. 28, 1859.

To the Democratic party of Kentucky:
The undersigned, the Democratic State Central Committee, were required by a resolution of the last State Convention "to fix the time and place of holding the next State Convention of the party." The 8th day of January next will fall upon Sunday. We therefore designate Monday, the 9th day of January, 1860, as the time, and Frankfort as the place, where said Convention shall be held.

Respectfully,

The Louisville Journal and Republicanism.

We had not seen the recantation of its faith in Seward and Chase in the Journal of the 1st and 2d when we wrote the article in the last Yeoman, but still it leaves us to believe it has confidence in others of the leaders of this same sectional party, and so great is its horror of Democracy, with which it is hopelessly beleaguered, and to which it must finally succumb to preserve its circulation and patronage, that it has recourse to the last shift of political diplomacy, and like Tallyrand at the Congress of Vienna, it procrastinates and only lets go one at a time, and with tears, as the evidence of complicity with treason becomes so patent that any fool as he runs may read.

The lamentation of the Journal over the loss of Seward as an ally against Democracy, is one of the most affecting passages of journalism which we have read for many a day. Scarcely more eloquent is the cry of old David over Absalom, or of that mother in Israel for the loss of her children, and refusing to be comforted because they are not, than are the wailings of poor Prentice at the loss of the alliance of these Republican traitors in the campaign of 1860 against the nominee of the Charleston Convention. We do not believe that we are insensible to human suffering; at least we were taught at our mother's knee to have a decent regard for the misfortunes of others, and to be charitable in attributing motives for the actions of other men; but we are divinely taught that "with what measure ye mete, it shall be meted to you again," and no adversary can claim more than "The mercy I to others show,

That mercy show to me."

and if we are not willing to attribute these lamentations to patriotic motives, or to regrets at severed friendships, it is because the Journal has been the most unscrupulous partisan organ in the land, attributing to corrupt motives every action and measure of the purest Democratic statesmen—in the very spirit of the ancient Pharisees, not allowing any good thing to come out of the Nazareth of Democracy, and feeding its readers upon partisan poison, till, like "Mithridates, King of Pontus," it has become a kind of nutriment to them. But these same readers, although often warned by faithful Democratic sentinels, are at last alarmed, and, like poor Coleridge from his long night of opium, they look with horror upon the alliance into which their "prophet, priest, and king" would have led them, with the aiders and abettors of treason, whose coup d'état is about to have such a disastrous close at Harper's Ferry.

To put the most charitable construction upon the course of the Journal, although it may offend, like similar information from Gil Blas to the Bishop of Granada, we should say it betrays a very slight weakening of the mental powers, such as all old men, even the most gifted, are liable to; and betoken an approach to that period of life when men "babble of green fields." Its readers are in a frame of mind no longer to be satisfied with sparkling wit, or satire even the most cutting—they have laughed to the very edge of the crater, and are only now aware of the "treasons, stratagems and crimes" that have been festering and plotting beneath this pathway of flowers. They demand stern statesmanship, and look to their prophet for patriotism and principle, and are no longer to be put off with a pun.

T. Q. Carter, who has just served one year in the jail of this county for forgery, was on Thursday last found guilty of stealing $795 in stamped envelopes from the United States, the penalty for which is imprisonment in the penitentiary from ten to twenty years, at the discretion of the Judge. Upon another count in the indictment against Carter for stealing $40 in postage stamps, the jury found him not guilty. Judge Monroe has not yet sentenced him.

HEALTH OF GALVESTON AND HOUSTON.—The Galveston News of the 27th gives a list of 9 deaths—8 from yellow fever—occurring on the 25th and 26th. At Houston there were 23 deaths, from the 24th to the 26th inclusive. The fever had entirely disappeared from Hempstead, and the citizens were returning home. No more cases had occurred at Cypress City, and those sick were reported convalescent.

Senator Wilson, of Mass., in a political speech a few nights ago at Albany, New York, admitted that the attempt of Brown at Harper's Ferry, was the result of the teaching of the Republican leaders.

The following is the article which caused the destruction of the Free South, the Republican paper published in Newport. It is in reply to an article in the Covington Journal:

The riot had many causes for its foundation, among which as the principal was the dissatisfaction of the workers in regard to their treatment and pay. The next was to secure their right of suffrage at the polls; hence the preparation to guard against "far an feather" arguments on such occasions. They were merely preparing for defense, not for aggression. But there is a certain class of persons always ready to make the worst of a case against those who prefer a free country to a slavery country.

The Journal says "it is practical Abolitionism," but we say the cause is practical Pro-Slaveryism. The Journal says it is "the teachings of such men as Giddings and Garrison;" but we say such proceedings are founded upon the actions of slaveholders and the depressing effects of the system of slavery upon free white men.

The Journal says the movement was "villainously fomented." But it was only necessary for it to have said it was "foul," for Mr. Brown seems to have acted on an internal sense of justice and duty, in obedience to Christian principle in behalf of slaves and the freedom of Virginia. However wrong he may have been, he cannot in justice be called a "villain."

On the appearance of this article in the Free South, the citizens of Newport being justly indignant at the tone of it, held a meeting, the proceedings and result of which we have already published. The publisher was advised to remove his paper to the Ohio side of the river, and on his refusal to do so, the citizens took the materials on which it was printed, and threw them into the river. The fact of the Free South attempting to explain and justify the motives of old Brown will cause many to justify the act of destruction, however much they may question the policy of it.

BLACKWOOD.—The October number of this old established and popular periodical is before us. Where each number is excellent, it is difficult to recommend any one in particular; but in this and the number for September are published articles which cannot fail to attract the attention of every reader. We refer to the abstract from the Journal of Capt. Speake, giving the details of a journey in Central Africa, made by him in conjunction with Lieut. Burton. "Traversing districts before untrod by the white man, that officer having entered Africa on the east coast, worked up to the northward and westward, to the Mountains of the Moon, and in their vicinity has discovered a vast lake or inland sea, to which he has given the name of Victoria Nyanza, and which there is every reason to believe is the long-sought Fountain of the Nile." The arguments produced by Capt. Speake to sustain his position are very interesting, and every one should procure the Magazine and read them.

Blackwood is republished by L. Scott & Co., 54 Gold street, New York, who are also the American publishers of the North British, Westminster, Edinburgh, and London Quarterly Reviews. Price of Blackwood $3 per annum. Price of the four Reviews, $8 a year; "Blackwood" and the four Reviews, $10.

CLOTHING.—Schloss & Getz, corner of Main and St. Clair streets, have in store one of the most complete and elegant stocks of fall and winter clothing ever brought to Frankfort. Fine dress frock and business coats, pants, vests, shirts, cravats, and every article of gentlemen's furnishing goods, made of the best material and in the latest and most fashionable styles, can be found at this establishment, and at prices which cannot fail to be satisfactory.

The Postmaster-General has established the following post-offices in Kentucky: Kenton, Harrison county; Laconia, Jefferson county; Brock's Station, Bullitt county; and discontinued Ingleside P. O., Warren county. The name of Smootsville P. O., Warren county, has been changed to New Woodburn.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE HON. JAS. C. JONES. The funeral obsequies of the late Jas. C. Jones took place at Memphis on Saturday last. The funeral discourse was preached by the Rt. Rev. James H. Otey, D. D., Bishop of the Diocese of Tennessee, from the text, "For all flesh is as grass, and the glory of man as the flower of grass." 1 Peter, 1: 24.

The Somerset True American of the 2d says that it is now confidently believed that Mr. Ben. F. Rice, of Estill, has been assassinated. His horse has been found, but his body has not. The murder took place in Clay county.

ASSAULT ON SENATOR DOOLITTLE'S WIFE AND DAUGHTER.—The Racine (Wisconsin) Advocate has the following notice of a daring attempt upon the wife and daughter of United States Senator Doolittle:

As Mrs. J. R. Doolittle and Miss Doolittle were returning in a carriage from Kenosha last Saturday evening, when about two miles north of the city, in the woods, they observed a man of suspicious appearance in advance, and, hastening to the horse, he made a spring at the reins, but, missing his grasp, he endeavored to catch hold of the carriage, but the horse, a spirited one, answered to the lash, and left the fellow where all his efforts to catch them were fruitless, although he followed them at the top of his speed for about half a mile, and once came within a few feet of grasping the carriage. The evening was so far advanced as to make it impossible to recognize the features of the man, or describe his clothing.

We are requested to announce that Elder W. T. Moore will be at home and will preach to-morrow (Sunday) at 11 o'clock, and at night.

Maryland Election—Fighting in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE NOV. 2.

The State election is now progressing. There is a great struggle in the city of Baltimore, as far as heard from the polls of the Third ward, are blocked by rowdies, and the police force are doing nothing to hinder them. In the Tenth ward the reform judge of election was intimidated and compelled to leave his post. Hinsley was appointed by the acting Mayor and rejected by the Councils. He has been re-appointed. The reformers have been driven off. James J. Jeffers, a son of Madison Jeffers, was shot in the side and beaten over the head by the reformers, whom he had ill-treated in the Fifth ward. Adam B. Kyle, Jr., a merchant, doing business at No. 88 Hanover street, a reformer, has been shot in the temple, and is in a dying condition. His brother, Geo. H. Kyle, who came to his rescue, was also shot and is dangerously wounded. In the Fourteenth ward a desperate struggle occurred; the reformers were resisted with arms. Johnny White alias James Johnson, a notorious rowdy, ran an awl into a reformer and was shot dead with a pistol ball. Two other rowdies named Harris and Duffy were shot in the legs. Henry Starr, a reformer, was also shot in the leg. Wm. Stiles, a reformer, was shot in the arm and leg. Theodore Woodard was badly beaten.

Dr. C. Richardson, a reformer, was pursued by the Captain of the Thunder Bolt Club with a drawn sword. He took refuge in a store, and the rowdies, pursuing, broke the windows. Richardson, however, managed to make his escape. Judge Giles, of the United States District Court, met Sheriff Cramer in the street and told him in delicate terms that he was to be held accountable for the bloodshed to day. He also told him as a Judge and a lawyer that he had the authority and it was his duty to interfere in the Eighteenth Ward. The rowdies took possession of the polls and gave the reformers notice to quit. Felix McCurdy was severely beaten.

In the Fifth Ward the Reformers were driven off at an early hour. The son of Hon. Joshua Vant was beaten while attempting to vote. Several shots were fired, but no person was injured. The First, Second, and Fourth Wards are also in possession of the rowdies to the total exclusion of all who oppose them. In the Twentieth Ward the rowdies are knocking down and maltreating whom they please. The police offer no protection to citizens. The rowdies brought a swivel gun to the ground in the Twelfth and Sixteenth Wards.

A gang of rowdies from Washington, fully armed, are aiding the Baltimore Rowdies. The indications now are that the Reformers, as a general thing, have abandoned the contest, finding it impossible to vote without risking their lives. In the Fifteenth ward, a boy has been mortally wounded by a shot in the breast. There is much talk in the city among the citizens of the propriety of establishing a vigilance committee.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 2.—Wm. F. Preston, the Democratic candidate for Congress in the Third District, is now lying at Barnum's Hotel, having been badly beaten about the head with a billy. The outrage is said to have been committed in the Seventh Ward.

In the Eleventh Ward, which is the stronghold of the reformers, Mr. George McGill, a prominent reformer, made a speech and announced the withdrawal of Mr. Thomas, the candidate for Attorney General. The reformers then all withdrew, finding it impossible to accomplish anything.

Ten o'clock P. M.—The Americans are rejoicing over their victory in the city; the reformers however deny that anything that can be called an election has taken place. It will be late before any returns of the vote can be obtained, as there were a large number of officers voted for and all on one ticket. In 17 wards it is reported that the average vote for the American ticket is 869. The highest vote on the reform ticket was only 24.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 2.—Mr. Adam B. Kyle, who received a pistol ball in his temple this morning at the election poll in the Fifteenth Ward, was reported dead at 2 o'clock, but he was still alive an hour since. His case however is hopeless, as the ball is buried in his brain.

At 3 o'clock, Dr. Robinson, of the Central Reform Committee, visited the polls in the Eleventh Ward and announced that the Reformers had been driven from every ward except that of the Eighth, and he therefore counseled the Reformers to withdraw, to avoid further bloodshed. Dr. Thomas, the Reform Judge, retired, and the contest was abandoned. The Reformers throughout the city took the same course, leaving the polls in the hands of the dominant party. Numerous reports are afloat with regard to minor outrages on the rights of citizens in the several wards. In the Second Ward, Charles Barkard, a German, was shot in the hip. In the Fifth Ward, a man, whose name is unknown, was dreadfully beaten.

In relation to the assault upon Mr. Preston, the most reliable report is that it occurred at Govanstown, in the Ninth District, Baltimore county. One account says the assailant was an Irishman, but it is difficult to arrive at the truth with so many conflicting reports.

This evening the streets are nearly deserted, except by the victorious party. The stores were generally closed at dark.

The proprietor of the Exchange having been threatened with an assault upon his office, has made a demand upon the city authorities for protection.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3.—In the Sixth Congressional District, Anne Arundel county, Geo. W. Hughes, Dem., for Congress, 119 maj.—A Dem. gain of 69 votes. In the Fifth District, Frederick county gives H. W. Hoffman, Amer., for Congress, about 300 maj.—a loss of 432 votes. Washington county gives Hoffman about 52 maj.

The returns from the State are very meagre. There seemed rather to favor the Democrats. The vote of the city is not in yet. The Reformers have a small maj in the Twelfth Ward.

The coroner held an inquest to-day on the body of Johnny White, the rowdy who was shot yesterday in the Fourteenth Ward. A verdict was rendered attributing the killing to accident, the weapon having been fired by a stray shot. No evidence was elicited showing that Duffy, who was arrested for the act, had anything to do with it.

An inquest is now in progress on the body of Mr. A. B. Kyle, who died last evening from injuries received.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3.—Returns indicate the Democrats will have a majority in the House. The Senate is still doubtful. Returns from the city Wards not yet complete. The Americans will probably have about 17,000 majority, which of course secures their Senate ticket by a heavy majority. So far there appears to be no change in the Congressional delegation.

The inquest on the body of Mr. Kyle is not yet concluded. The central reform committee held a meeting and unanimously expressed the deepest indignation and also distress at the murder of their respected and excellent fellow-citizen, Adam B. Kyle, Jr., at the polls of the 15th Ward, and resolved to attend the funeral to-morrow morning, inviting all lovers of law and order who regard with sorrow and shame this crowning act of the unparalleled enormities of the recent election, to unite in the funeral procession.

Democratic Meeting in Calloway.—At a meeting of a large portion of the Democracy of Calloway county, held at the court-house, in Murray, on the 24th inst., it being County Court day, the following resolutions were adopted as the sense of a majority of the citizens of the county:

Resolved, That the territories of the United States are the common property of all, purchased by the common blood and treasure of the people of all the States, and are held in trust by the General Government for the benefit of all the States; that the Constitution of the United States was made and adopted by a majority of States recognizing slavery as a bona fide species of property, and that it recognizes property in slaves, placing the same upon the same footing as other property. And as one of the great purposes of government is the protection of the owner in this right of property, it is the constitutional and imperative duty of Congress to pass all needful measures for the protection of that property whenever the Territorial requirements shall fail to grant them ample relief.

Resolved, That we heartily endorse the decision of the Supreme Court in the Dred Scott case as being sound, safe, and a true exposition of the Constitution of the United States, doing justice to the slave-holding States of the Union.

Resolved, That the acts of Congress as adjudicated by the Supreme Court of the United States, are the supreme law of the land as to the subjects they embrace, and implicit obedience to them as such ought to be enforced.

Resolved, That as Congress has by the Federal Constitution no power to carry into or take out of our territories the institution of slavery, we are opposed to any and all compromises on that subject.

Resolved, That Congress exists by proceeds from and is assigned by the Constitution of the United States her sphere of action, and all the rightful powers she has or can exercise, except those absolutely necessary to carry out the clearly expressed powers, and that she can grant no powers she does not herself possess.

Resolved, That a Territorial Legislature has no more power over the institution of slavery, other than to protect by friendly legislation the rights of the owner to his slaves within its limits, than it has over the institution of slavery in the United States, and that it is the duty of the Territorial Legislature, in our opinion, to say the least of it, to carry out the Federal Constitution.

Resolved, That the delegates appointed by this meeting to the 9th of January Convention, to be held at Frankfort, are instructed to use all honorable means to secure the appointment of delegates to the Charleston Democratic Convention whose views coincide with the foregoing sentiments, and that we would hail with delight the nomination of Hon. James Guthrie, of Louisville, Ky., for the Executive Chair of this nation.

After which the following resolutions were offered and adopted by the meeting:

Resolved, That we regard the policy advocated by the Hon. Stephen A. Douglas as suicidal to the best interests of the South, and that we contemplate his election to the office of Chief Magistrate of the United States as a triumph of the anti-slavery party, and that it is the sentiment of the free electors of Calloway county that it is of the utmost importance to the well being of the Southern States, to defeat and crush out his pretensions for the nomination of the Charleston National Democratic Convention.

Resolved, That we confide in the wisdom, patriotism, and national conservative principles of the Democracy of this nation, and that we will give our hearty support and co-operation to secure the election of any sound National Democrat who may be the nominee of the Charleston Convention, provided they stand on the platform of the "free soil, free labor, free men" policy, and that we are utterly opposed to all compromise of principles by Democrats.

Resolved, That our love, and confidence in, the Hon. Lim Boye, is undiminished; and although our hopes are somewhat overshadowed by his present affliction, our anticipations are still bright that he will recover ere long and enter upon his former path of usefulness.

Resolved, That from his large experience, good sense, devotion to the Union, the Federal Constitution, and that equality of right intended to be secured to each citizen and every portion of our common country, he ought to be elected by our next Legislature to the U. S. Senate.

Resolved, That we have full confidence that our members elect to the next Legislature will do all they can honorably to secure this desirable result.

Resolved, That C. A. Duncan, E. Owings, C. A. Ezell, J. H. Swift, G. A. C. Holt, P. M. Ellison, B. A. Neal, Hon. T. M. Jones, V. Coleman, J. L. Irwin, and all other good Democrats of the county, be, and they are hereby, appointed delegates to the Convention to be held at Frankfort on the 9th of January, 1860.

Proclamation by the Governor.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY,

Executive Department,

Another abundant harvest has been gathered; another year of multiplied blessings is fast drawing to a close. The labors of the farmer, the mechanic, the manufacturer, and the merchant, the professional man and the man of science, have been abundantly rewarded; commerce has revived, trade has improved, and thrift is apparent everywhere throughout the land. Neither war nor pestilence nor famine has afflicted us. Peace, plenty, and health have blessed a free, prosperous, and happy people. Providence has showered His blessings upon us as individuals, as a State, as a nation. We should return to Him the homage of grateful hearts. In the eager pursuit of pleasure, of fortune, or of fame—in the excitement of our daily occupations—in the multitudinous pursuits of life, we are too apt to forget Him from whom these bounties come. Acknowledging no sovereign but Him, let us recognize the venerable custom of the Jewish Feast of Weeks appointed by Jehovah for His chosen people. For the establishment of, and preservation then, of our free institutions—for the preservation of our lives and health—for our tranquility, prosperity, and happiness—for our general thrift and the untold blessings we enjoy as a State and a people—

I, BERNIAH MAGOFFIN, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, do hereby appoint and set apart THURSDAY, the 24th day of November next, as a day of THANKSGIVING AND PRAISE TO ALMIGHTY GOD, and recommend its appropriate observance by all the citizens of the Commonwealth.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the Commonwealth to be affixed. Done at Frankfort, this 14th day of October, A. D. 1859, and in the sixty-eighth year of the Commonwealth.

By the Governor: B. MAGOFFIN.

Thos. B. Monroe, Jr., Secretary of State.

By Jas. W. Tate, Ass't Secretary.

Sketch of Hon. James Guthrie.

It cannot be denied that the Hon. James Guthrie, of Kentucky, occupies a commanding position before his fellow-citizens. His name has been repeatedly mentioned in connection with the next Presidency, and many of his friends feel sanguine that the convention will finally unite upon him. Whether this great distinction be in store for Mr. Guthrie or not, a brief sketch of his life will prove both interesting and instructive, and I take the liberty of asking for a place for it in the columns of your widely circulated journal.

Mr. Guthrie was born in 1799 at Bloomfield, Nelson county, Kentucky, about forty miles from Louisville, in one of the richest agricultural districts of that famous agricultural State. His parents were in moderate circumstances, and young Guthrie, it is believed, never received other education than the common school or perhaps village academy afforded. He resided at home until he was near twenty years of age, not unfrequently making trips on flat boats to New Orleans, and, in a word, engaged in the usual labors of farmers' sons. About the age of twenty he went to Bardonia, the county-seat of Nelson county, where he entered the law office of the celebrated Judge John Rowan, formerly United States Senator from Kentucky, and a lawyer of great eminence and ability. It was not long before young Guthrie was seen to possess a mind of rare acuteness, and an energy of character at once indomitable and persevering. He did not attract attention by any wonderful brilliancy, but rather by a solid judgment, stern integrity, and great solidity of character. He passed about two years in Judge Rowan's office, when he opened an office of his own for a brief period, in the same town; but soon after removed to the city of Louisville, where he still resides, and which owes to his steady industry and unswerving energy much of its present importance as a business place.

For many years Mr. Guthrie devoted himself assiduously to the duties of his profession, and took a high rank at the bar as a sound, able, and successful lawyer. In 1839 he was elected to the State Senate of Kentucky, from the city of Louisville, beating Frank Johnson, a popular man, and that, too, when the city was giving a regular Whig majority of 1,000. This election affords a fair indication of Mr. Guthrie's popularity in his own city, especially as he was thus able to carry it when the Whig party of Kentucky was in all its pristine vigor, and straining every nerve to elect Mr. Clay to the Presidency.

Mr. Guthrie's career in the Legislature of his native State was not attended with any very important features, but it soon became evident that he carried the same unbending integrity into his public career that characterized his private life. During Mr. Guthrie's legislative term there was a great effort made by certain parties to saddle Kentucky with a heavy State debt in order to build a railroad from Cincinnati to Charleston. This project met in Mr. Guthrie its most determined enemy, and though his party were greatly in the minority, yet he succeeded in defeating the measure and saving the State from a heavy load of debt. Whilst a member of the Senate, Mr. Guthrie took great interest in the common schools of his native State. Every cause for the benefit of the masses has ever received Mr. Guthrie's warm approval, while anything tending to give advantages to the few which were denied the many have ever met with his most uncompromising opposition.

After he left the Senate Mr. Guthrie returned to the practice of his profession, which was interrupted by any particular event of public character until the Presidential canvass of 1844, when Mr. Polk was the Democratic candidate. Mr. Guthrie took an active and earnest part in this campaign, and canvassed Kentucky, a portion of Indiana and Tennessee, and making one speech in Cincinnati. The influence he exercised was very great, and to his efforts the Democrats were largely indebted for success in that memorable contest. His time, talents, and means were freely given, and after the election of Mr. Polk was secured, he positively declined accepting anything the President could bestow.

In 1849 Mr. Guthrie was elected a member to the State Convention, convened for the purpose of framing a new Constitution for the State. The contest for delegates was a most exciting one, and again the popularity of Mr. Guthrie among his own townsmen was apparent. He was elected from Louisville, together with Hon. Wm. Preston, our present Minister to Spain, and James Rudd, Esq., beating a very popular opposition ticket, composed of Chapman Coleman, Esq., a son-in-law of Senator Crittenden, Jas. Speed, Esq., one of the first lawyers of Kentucky, and D. L. Beatty, Esq., formerly Mayor of that city.

The Convention upon its organization bestowed upon Mr. Guthrie the distinguished honor of choosing him its presiding officer, to which position he was elected over the Hon. Archibald Dixon, afterwards United States Senator, and one of the most accomplished men in the State. Mr. Guthrie made an admirable presiding officer, for, with a mind of great acuteness, he combined a decision and energy of action which stamped him as an executive officer of rare ability.

In 1851, when Hon. L. W. Powell was nominated for Governor, Mr. Guthrie took an active part, and to his exertions, more than any other man's, was the glorious result due of making Kentucky a Democratic State, after a lapse of some years. In 1852 he took a prominent part in the election of Gen. Pierce, and as usual threw all his influence in behalf of Democratic candidates and Democratic principles. In 1854 Gen. Pierce unexpectedly tendered to Mr. Guthrie the position of Secretary of the Treasury in his cabinet, and he accepted it, the first and only office he ever held that he did not receive directly from the hands of the people.

Of Mr. Guthrie's career as Secretary of the Treasury it is almost unnecessary for us to speak, for it is well known to the public, and we shall therefore only allude briefly to a few prominent points. It was soon discovered that a master mind was at the helm of financial affairs, and one, too, that saw with an eagle glance every item of wasteful extravagance. It was the first time that the superior faculties of Mr. Guthrie had enjoyed the opportunity to make their mark upon the entire nation, and certain it was that every portion of the country felt the weight and influence of them. He took the oath of office as Secretary of the Treasury on the 8th of March, 1853, and on that very day saved the nation nearly one million dollars. This he did by countermanding at once some of Mr. Corwin's extravagant orders. Mr. Guthrie soon investigated every portion of the department under his control, cut off many useless offices, and infused new life and activity into every collection district in the Union. "Retrenchment" was his motto, and fully and ably he carried it out. There were no Galphins and Gardners in his day, and it was currently reported that what a man got from the Treasury illegally while "Jim Guthrie" was at its head, would never make him rich. We believe Mr. Guthrie did more to convince people that they ought to be honest in politics as well as in other respects, than perhaps any of his predecessors. In a word, he created a moral tone among the government employees which was at once healthful and full of promise.

Since leaving the Treasury department, Mr. Guthrie has devoted his energies to effect the completion of the Nashville and Louisville Railroad, which, like everything he really attempts, has been successful. Every aspect of Mr. Guthrie's career affords a picture which Americans can contemplate with unalloyed satisfaction. Left in early life to achieve for himself a place and position in the world, he rose by dint of his own exertions, and by the force of native talent alone, has taken rank among the first men of our country. There are no adventitious characteristics about Mr. Guthrie. He does not dazzle the people by a false and glaring brilliancy, nor stoop to catch merely popular applause by appealing to prejudices or passions, but with a firm devotion to the right, which neither the blandishments of power nor the weakness of ambitious desires could for a moment swerve, he presents to the American people one of the truest representatives of sterling integrity, unsullied patriotism, and true devotion to the interests of the people, which this country has ever produced. As we stated in the outset, his name has been urged by many of his friends as a suitable one for the consideration of the Democratic National Convention. But no man who has the least idea of Mr. Guthrie's character could for a moment connect him with any effort to secure the nomination. Never, by word or act do we believe he would do anything to secure the support of any man, much less resort to means which other men have adopted. It would not be like Mr. Guthrie to seek office. His Jacksonian pride and independence would revolt at any such proceeding. He would not be plain-spoken, honest-hearted James Guthrie, that he, it were, he capable of any such maneuvers. If Mr. Guthrie receives the nomination at Charleston, it will be because the American people say of their own accord that he is "the right man for the right place," and it may be safely set down as a rule to which there are few exceptions that it is only such men who are really fit for, or deserve the exalted position of President of the United States. If a man can be so transported by dreams of ambition as to forget the dignity of the office he aspires to reach, and indulge in petty tricks or party squabbles to secure it, it may be safely concluded that he is not worthy of the position.

In the midst of the discussions upon the next Presidency, Mr. Guthrie has maintained a dignified silence, which commends him, in our estimation, the more to popular esteem and support.

The great points in Mr. Guthrie's character may be summed up as follows: Strong common sense, unflinching energy, a powerful will, and Jacksonian pluck and independence. These characteristics he fully displayed while Secretary of the Treasury. He brought to bear on his office the strictest accountability and the most rigid economy. Where expenditures were necessary he was liberal and considerate, but where no strong public reason existed for them, or where the law did not warrant them, not a cent. He was rigidly opposed to running in debt. "Pay as you go" has been the motto of his life. This he carried into his public career, and succeeded in infusing it more fully than any of his predecessors. No man stands before the American people to-day with a clearer record, a more spotless integrity, or truer devotion to his country, than Mr. Guthrie. It is believed by many, and the number is increasing, that the present era needs a man of bold and firm character, who knows the right and has the nerve to carry it out—one who will strike terror into the lobbies of Congress, and scourge the corrupt politicians, who year after year, swarm to the national capital, and who are constantly growing bolder and more unscrupulous, almost defying the power of the President, while plundering without remorse the pockets of the people. Mr. Guthrie would be just the man for such a crisis, and he is known to be in every other respect unexceptionable, there can be no doubt that, should the Charleston Convention choose him as the standard-bearer of the Democratic party in 1860, a glorious victory would once more perch upon its banner.

In person Mr. Guthrie is tall and commanding. He looks to be even more than six feet. His hair is gray, and with a large, massive head and an impressive manner, he strikes one at once as no ordinary man. At first Mr. Guthrie's manners do not always please as much as those of some men more courtly and polished, but you soon discover that in all that pertains to true politeness he has no superior. His friendship is not ostentatious, but it is none the less real. He never forsakes a friend. He would not grant his confidence hastily, but once received, the recipient may rest secure that it will be retained as long as he is deserving of it.

In his own city Mr. Guthrie has been distinguished for many acts of silent benevolence, for great devotion to mechanics and laboring men, always patronizing those of his own locality; for assistance rendered to young men starting in business, and for hundreds of acts of real kindness, which stamp him as a man of the truest philanthropy. Though he has acquired a very large fortune by his habits of steady and persevering industry, yet he is neither extravagant nor parsimonious. He lives in true republican simplicity, and would make a most worthy and able successor to our present popular Chief Magistrate. The writer of this believes that in all the essential elements of popularity Mr. Guthrie has no superior, and that as a President he would, by his sturdy patriotism and unflinching integrity, give dignity to the position, preserve this glorious Republic of States, and perhaps defeat forever the minions of Abolitionism.

Brown Sentenced—Coppes Convicted.

CHARLESTOWN, VA., Nov. 2.

Russell and Sennott, attorneys from Boston, reached here to-day.

Cook was brought before the Magistrates' court, but, waiving an examination, he was committed for trial.

Coppes's trial was resumed—no witnesses were called for the defense.

Mr. Harding opened the argument for the Commonwealth, and Hoyt and Griswold followed for the defendant.

Mr. Hunter closed for the prosecution.

The speeches were of marked ability.

Mr. Griswold asked for several instructions, which were all granted by the court. The jury then retired.

Brown was then brought into the court-house, which was immediately thronged.

The court gave its decision on the motion for arrest of judgment, overruling the objections made.

On the objection that treason cannot be committed against a State except by a citizen, it ruled that wherever allegiance was due, treason may be committed—most of the States have passed laws against treason.

The objects to the form of the verdict rendered were also regarded as insufficient.

The Clerk then asked Brown whether he had anything to say by way of sentence of death should not be pronounced against him, when Brown stood up and in a clear and distinct voice said:

I have, may it please the court, a few words to say.

In the first place, I deny everything except what I have all along admitted—the design on my part to free the slaves. I intended, certainly, to have made a clean thing of the matter, as I did last winter when I went into Missouri and there took the slaves, (without the snapping of a gun on either side), moved them through the country, and finally left them in Canada. I designed to have done the same thing again, on a larger scale. That was all I intended. I never intended to commit murder or treason, or to destroy property, or excite the slaves to rebellion, or to make an insurrection.

I have another objection—that it is unjust that I should suffer such a penalty. Had I interfered in the manner which I admit, (and which I admit has been fairly proved, for I admit the truthfulness and candor of the greater portion of the witnesses who have testified in this case), had I so interfered in behalf of the rich, the powerful, the intelligent, the so-called great; or in behalf of their friends, either father, mother, brother, sister, wife, or children, or any of that class; and sacrificed and suffered what I have in this interference, it would have been all right. Every man in this court would have exonerated it. An act worthy of reward, rather than punishment.

This court acknowledges, as I suppose, the validity of the law of God. I see a book kisser here, which I suppose to be the Bible, or at least, the New Testament. That teaches that whoever I would that men should do to me, I should do even so to them. It teaches me further; remember them that are in bonds, as bound with them.

I endeavored to act up to that instruction. I say I am yet too young to understand that God is any respecter of persons. I believe that to have interfered (as I have always freely admitted I have done) in behalf of his despised and poor, was not wrong, but right.

Now I deem necessary that I should forfeit my life for the furtherance of the ends of justice and mingle my blood further with the blood of my children and with the blood of millions in this slave country, whose rights are disregarded by wicked, cruel, and unjust enactments. I admit it. Let it be done.

Let me say one word further. I feel entirely satisfied with the treatment I have received on my trial. Considering all the circumstances of the case, it has been more generous than I expected, but I feel no consciousness of guilt. I have stated from the first what my intentions were, and what were not my intentions. I never had any design against the life of any person, nor any disposition to commit treason, or to excite slaves to rebel, or to make any general insurrection. I never contemplated doing so, but, always discouraged any idea of that kind.

Let me say also, in regard to the statements made by some of those connected with me, that I hear it has been stated by some of them that I induced them to join me. The contrary is true. I do not say this to injure them, but as regretting their weakness. Not one joined but of their own accord, and the greater part at their own expense. A number of them I never saw and never had any conversation with till the day they came to me, and that was for the purpose I have stated. Now I have done.

While Brown was speaking perfect quiet prevailed. When he had finished the court proceeded to pronounce the sentence.

After a few preliminary remarks, in which he said no reasonable doubt could exist as to the prisoner's guilt, the Judge sentenced Brown to be hung in public on Friday, the 2d of December.

Brown received his sentence with composure.

The only demonstration made was with clapping of hands by one man in the crowd, who is not a resident of Jefferson county. This was promptly suppressed, and much regret was expressed by the citizens.

The verdict in Coppes's case was guilty on all the counts of the indictment. After being out an hour the jury in the case of Coppes returned with a verdict declaring Coppes guilty. His counsel gave notice of a motion of arrest of judgment, as in Brown's case.

The court then adjourned.

Extraordinary Robbery and Elopement—A Wife Robs her Husband and Runs Away With an Ex-Mayor.

A month or two ago a man who keeps a hotel in a city not far from Cincinnati was robbed of nearly $500, under peculiar circumstances. The money was in gold coin, and had been placed in such a position in the house that it could not have been taken but by some one who was well acquainted with the premises. His wife was the only person who could have been aware of its whereabouts, and although we know not where it had been secreted, have been assured that it was the last place in which a burglar would have thought of seeking plunder.

The establishment, however, was opened and the money taken. The wife was loud and far from modest in her expression of surprise when the robbery became known, and although the husband felt satisfied that some one in the house had committed the theft, he knew not who to blame. His wife had, in appearance, at least, been growing more fond of him daily since she had been wed, and sympathized with him so deeply in his misfortune that no single stray suspicion entered his puzzled mind that she was the culprit. Still on the alert, and hoping to discover the perpetrator of the felony, time passed on, and the matter was as much a mystery as before.

A week or two ago she concluded to visit some relatives who reside in Louisville, and in company with the usual amount of traveling paraphernalia she took passage on the mail boat for that city. Her husband accompanied her to the landing, and their parting was the most tender that could have been conceived. Not the adieu between "Gilda" and her lover, or the good-night of "Romeo" and "Juliet" was more pathetic, or more reluctant than the parting of our Boniface and his bride.

The day before the lady left her home, however, an ex-Mayor, whose name we will not write, had been fatally shot, and the cause of the terrible purpose of going to Pittsburgh to purchase stock. It is not probable he ever reached the "smoky city," for two days afterward he was seen in Louisville, and in company with the lady, who her husband and her friends had thought was visiting her relatives, he left that city for the North upon the train for Lexington.

Since then the pair have not been seen by any one who knew them, nor by those to whom they should have written, have they been heard from. The deserted husband first wrote to Louisville and then visited it; but his wife could not be found, and then he knew that Love had broken all of Hymen's chains, and left him at once penniless and wifeless.

He has not heard from her, just now, he doubts she has the blind but laughing boy, and for the first he curses alone the fate that married him.

[Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun.]

CHARLESTOWN, VA., Oct. 29.—Gov. Willard, of Indiana, visited his brother-in-law, Cook, yesterday in jail, in company with Senator Mason.

Mr. Mason proposed to the Governor to retire when the latter entered, suggesting that he would probably prefer that his interview should be private, and also for the reason that anything Cook might say he would feel bound to testify to if called upon as a witness. Gov. Willard very promptly replied that he himself would be a witness in court to any facts Cook might communicate, and insisted that Mr. Mason should be present. Gov. Willard urged Cook to make a full confession of all he knew connected with the affair at Harper's Ferry, in order to exonerate those who were innocent, and to punish those who were implicated, as the only atonement he could make. Cook signified his willingness to do so, and he will probably make a written confession. He told Cook that he had nothing to hope for but death. Gov. Willard states that his family had lost sight of Cook for several years, and supposed he was dead, until upon reading his name in the papers, he determined to visit Charleston to ascertain if he was his relative. Mrs. Willard, he states, is in great distress at the conduct of her brother.

A detachment of regular troops, consisting of twenty-five men, under Capt. S. M. Harbour and other officers, arrived at the Harper's Ferry armory to-day, and will probably remain there for their protection until spring. Superintendent Barker is organizing two companies of armories, employed at the works, who will be drilled by the officers of the regular troops, and who will be qualified to take the place of the regulars when they leave. The Secretary of War, Gov. Floyd, who has been at Harper's Ferry for a day or two, left yesterday. Charleston and the surrounding region remains under strict military surveillance. Col. Davis, of Richmond, is exercising military superintendence here under orders from Governor Wise. All strangers and strangers are required to give a good account of themselves. A dagger-realist, with his van, and a soap and medicine peddler, were very properly ordered out of town yesterday.

MUCH OBLIGED.—Upon entering our office a few days ago, our eyes fell upon an arm-chair, of most magnificent proportions, which had never been there before. On inspection, we found a card attached inscribed with these sensible words:—"For the Editor's sanctum." It is one of those splendid chairs manufactured at the Kentucky Penitentiary, the most comfortable as well as the most substantial chairs to be found anywhere. They are also neat, and are especially suited to offices, dining rooms and sitting rooms. Ours came from the ware-rooms of our friend H. T. Brent, who keeps them for sale, and where we advise all who want good, neat, serviceable and luxurious chairs to call and get them.

OUR REPRINTS VERSUS ECLECTICS, &c.

As we have for many years been paying more than $3,000 annually to the British Publishers for the matter furnished in these Periodicals, thus virtually becoming copiers of their works, we have determined to publish our own reprints, and give the preference to our own reprints, which now extract matter liberally from our works and pay nothing either to the Foreign Publishers or to us for the same. As to cheapness, nobody can complain of paying $10 a year for the four leading British Reviews and Blackwood's Magazine, and by taking these works entire, subscribers are not obliged to be guided by others in the choice of the articles they may desire to read. Moreover, taking into consideration the style in which our reprints are published, and the accuracy and fidelity to the original editions, and also the advantage of an early issue by means of the advance sheets—our reprints will be found to compare favorably with the competing publications to which we have alluded.

N. B.—The price of Great Britain of the five Periodicals above named is $31 per annum.

OUR REPRINTS versus ELECTRICITY, &c.
As we have for many years been publishing the matter furnished in these Periodicals, thus virtually becoming copiers of the original works, we have been asked to publish the same in our own name. We have no objection to this, but we must be understood to state that we are not publishing the same in our own name, but in the name of the original publishers, and we are not responsible for the contents of the same.

Remittances.—Remittances should always be addressed, post paid, to the Publishers.

AN IMPORTANT WORK FOR AGENTS.

JUST PUBLISHED.

The Life, Speeches & Memorials

DANIEL WEBSTER.

Containing his most Celebrated Orations.

A Selection from the Eulogies Delivered on the Occasion of his Death, and his Life and Times.

BY SAMUEL M. SMUCKER, LL. D.

IN one large volume of 550 pages, printed on fine paper, and bound in beautiful style, containing excellent illustrations of his Birthplace and Mansion at Marshfield, and a full-length life-like portrait of the illustrious statesman, and is considered to be an important work in American literature. No work was to be obtained, heretofore, which presented, within a compact and convenient compass, the chief events of the life of Daniel Webster, his most remarkable intellectual efforts, and the most valuable and interesting contributions to the great men of the nation uttered in honor of his memory.

We present all these treasures in this volume, at a very moderate price, and in a very convenient form. Subscription price, in cloth, $1.75; handsomely embossed, $2.50. Sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of subscription price.

Regular, giving contents of the work, and Catalogue of my Publications, will be sent free upon application. Address DUANE HULSON, Publisher, 33 South Third Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
